VALPARAISO tour Chile

AN EVENING OF CHARM

DAY 1

200 km.

We start the journey with a 200 km ride to Valparaíso going thorough the charming little village of Olmue which is a typical rural township of Chile. To reach Olmue from Santiago we will take a fantastic road for bike riding called "Cuesta de la Dormida".

After a break in Olmue we will continue riding towards Valparaíso, listed as a World. Heritage Site by UNESCO, is known as one of the most charming port cities in Latin America and was also a resting place for the participants of the 2009 Dakar Rally.

Valparaíso is a natural bay which is surrounded by a mountain range on the Pacific Ocean. One of the biggest attractions is the manner in which the locals have built their homes, in an almost spontaneous fashion, up the side of the very steep hills. The great diversity of architectural styles that blend ancient marble mansions surrounded by smaller multicolored houses, restaurants and bars gives this place a little charm not often seen in other parts of the world. Because of the high steep hills which surround Valparaíso, there are numerous elevators to transport people from the city to their homes. These very old elevators provide wonderful views of the Ocean.

Before we reach Valparaíso, we will stop for lunch at the beautiful vineyard of Casa de Bosque located in the Casablanca Valley.

Dinner and Lodging at a boutique hotel with fantastic views of the bay of Valparaíso, Chile.

DAY 2

240 km.

Rather than return to Santiago via the most direct route, we will instead travel along the coastal route towards Reñaca and Zapallar (north).

At the bay of Zapallar, where you will find yourself surrounded by rocks, a deep blue sea, fishing boats and mountains, we will stop for lunch at the famous local Restaurant, El Chiringuito.

This restaurant has outdoor tables and full view of the bay, a great environment to taste some typical dishes of fish and seafood. Don't worries if seafood is not for you, they also offer many other options.

Return to Santiago arriving at approximately 5.00 pm.
